Hi Abigail,

I'm sorry the system is causing you so much trouble. I know you're not the only one getting error pages and experiencing page jumping, but I do not know if those problems are related to the web browser you are using. I spoke with ITSD and they had not tested the system on Microsoft Edge, but will be doing so today to make sure that's not the issue. Additionally, they are aware of the page jumping issue and are working on that as well. For what it's worth, I use Google Chrome. I occasionally get an error page thrown at me myself, but have not seen any error pages that I have not been able to resolve by closing the browser and logging back in. I'll let you know more info on system solutions as I know more.

Good morning. This process is a little tedious. Am I the only one having issues with the system? I hate to be a problem child. If no one else is having problems I wonder if I should try a different search engine.
